

OFFICE MARKET OVERVIEW

MAX LAPKE, Senior Associate

The Kansas City office market continued to show some stabilization throughout the 3rd quarter. A lessening of space being put on the sublease market has aided in ability for landlords to compete on new deals. A noticeable decline in the development of new office buildings has been seen with only 576,554 square feet currently under construction, compared to 816,604 square feet the prior quarter. The sustained and gradual increase in lease rates is also evident with the average asking full-service rate now at $22.79 per square foot.
